

G5 ENTERTAINMENT AB

G5 to support iPhone 5, Kindle Fire HD, Nexus 7

2012-09-24 PRESS RELEASE

G5 Entertainment announces the support for the latest generation of smart phones and tablets. The group's games are readily available on new generation of iOS and Android devices, including Apple's iPhone 5 smartphone, Android-powered Nexus 7 tablet, and Amazon's Kindle Fire HD tablet. Games are available as free downloads through iTunes App Store, Google Play, and Amazon Appstore, respectively, and already take advantage of higher density screen resolution of these devices. Going forward, the group's new game releases are going to take full advantage of new capabilities of these devices including higher processing power, memory capacity, and increased screen size.

Vlad Suglobov, CEO, comments: "G5 is committed to providing its users with the best casual gaming experience on smartphones and tablets. We are excited to see new generation of more powerful, slimmer, larger screen devices hitting the market this fall. These new devices have unprecedented hardware, software, and services, and will no doubt be the most popular generation of smartphones and tablets to date, fuelling the growth of the group and the market of smartphone and tablet games for the rest of 2012 and in 2013."
